Simple Show Editor

Last Updated Monday, 31 March 2008 23:41

What is it?

The Simple Show Builder is just what you would expect it to be. It's a utility designed to make it easy to create your shows. The program literally walks you through each step with easy to understand questions.

Getting/Installing the software

To download the Simple Show Builder, simply visit the Light-O-Rama web site, and click on Su pport
. At the bottom of the page you will see a link for the Simple Show building.

Notes

As of 07/08/2007 when you install the software it will not put a shortcut in your start menu for you. To access the software you will need to open the Light-O-Rama directory on your computer, and access the "LORSimpleShowBuilder.exe" file.

The LOR SSB will look for sequence files located in your current default sequence directory. To determine which directory is your default directory, simply open the sequence editor, and select, "Open."

Generally, you will want to select the "All Files" option to find your sequence files. Only files ending in _16.lms and _32.lms will show up in the 16 and 32 channel buttons, respectively.